Plenty of War-If Nuts Are in Trenches.

Rexford L. Holmes, of this city, went to Europe with the Ford peace party, confident in the belief that the war in Europe was all that Sherman said about it, and that the Detroit automobile manufacturer had divine inspiration for his plan to "get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas."

Miss Annie G. Black, one of Mr. Holmes' corps of Washington stenographers, went to Europe believing that woman's place was to assist in bringing about peace at any price, and that she

That is to say, if there was any chance of getting the peace nuts in the trenches, which there is not."

Preparing a Statement.

Mr. Holmes and his pretty stenogtapher were hard at work today preparing a statement to the public about their grievances. Mr. Holmes, who is blonde hair a lot, was doing the dictating. Miss Black, who has pretty eyes, was pounding the typeriter. The telephone receiver had been taken off the book that the train of thought might not be interrupted.
